Dear Christy - we've had a fun year. We have succeeded in becoming best friends - three ways - something I never would have thought was possible. We've had some great times - "The rents are leaving town... wanna stay with me?" "Oh my, this house is trashed isn't it?" "I do have fat thighs - admit it!" "Whose gonna get the floor?" "You clean up those pretzels" "Watch out for the rubber-band on the... never mind..." "Here John, go wash this plate for me" ... Toro... pillowfights... "I've not eaten a healthy thing all weekend... lunchmeat in bags from mom... sandwiches from the hill... Diet Coke... "But the curb jumped out in front of me, honest... It's one o'clock in the morning. Do you know where your hubcap is?"... let's party... Anyhow, enough about week-ends. Let's talk micillaneous (did I spell that right?) stuff. How about boys. Lord knows I love talking about them. John - what about him? Good times, talking, laughing, crying... "Your sisters and mom are yelling at you? Come over... Don't stay til three...

Just The Right Year

1984 is "JUST THE RIGHT YEAR" for it marks the 125th anniversary of the long standing tradition of excellence evident at Mary Institute. This excellence is readily apparent today in the classrooms, on the Beasley playground, on the sports fields, in the students, in the faculty and in the administration. At Mary Institute the alliance of 125 years of well founded convention coupled with modern, innovative ideas accounts for the unique flavor of excellence obvious in all aspects of the school community, both on the May Field and in the computer room.

1984 is JUST THE RIGHT YEAR at Mary Institute for the students.

The school community's adherence to tradition and willingness to accept changes provides students with a unique academic and extracurricular environment. The recent acquisition of a modernized computer system, a newly renovated library and a remodeled Rec Room provide students with alternate study environments

In conjunction with changes in the academic environment, faculty and administration have modernized the curriculum. In a joint decision, it was agreed to abolish weighted class ranking after the year 1984 and increase graduation requirements in the History and Science Departments. After the first trial year, coordination between Mary Institute and Country Day has proven to be advantageous to all. Increased enrollment in coordinate classes, coordinate schedules and a joint school calendar all contribute to the success of this venture.

The year of 1984 represents Mary Institute at her best. A positive school attitude, greater ease in coordination, acceptance of the Honor Code and an improved academic environment make 1984 JUST THE RIGHT YEAR for students at Mary Institute.

STUDENTS

Seniors show their spirit, enthusiasm and support for the CDS Rams.

What's it like to be a senior at Mary I.? After years of obscurity, what's it like to suddenly be in the limelight? From the first day the words "you are setting an example" and "it is your responsibility" are inscribed in your mind. You will hear them often; from Ms. York when she tells you the parking regulations for the fifth time and from Mr. Llufrio when he speaks to you about college applications. In addition to personal responsibilities, the senior class as a whole must set an example. Halloween Chapel, Little Sister parties, Senior Speeches, Class Day, Cry Day and May Day are all require a great deal of senior organization. Then there is the little matter of coming to school. Seniors, for some reason, are positively allergic to the idea. So, once you've made it to school with your two dozen brownies for your little sis just in time for Mr. Lykens to call your name at 8:05, what is there? Well, there's the senior room, a definite boost to school life, and, despite all the anxiety, frustration, and pressure, there is an excitement about senior year. Someone once said that is the people you remember. It's not possible to speak for all senior class, but as for the Class of 84, they're JUST THE RIGHT class to lead the school.

I am comfortable around my friend. For reasons not always clear to me, he loves me. He has seen me blunder, he is aware of my annoying self-indulgences, my private habits. All the things I once thought no one could know about me and still love me, he knows. In his presence, I have very little to guard against, because he distills me from my words. We have been together a long time, and now, some grace within him can see me even when his eyes are open. - Hugh Prather.

Life is a sweeter, stronger, fuller, more gracious thing for the friend's existence, whether he be near or far. Dear Mom and Dad,
How can a simple "thank you" measure up to everything you have done for me. Things so undeserved, yet you provided, showing your love for me. Through your continuous sacrifices I have gained the knowledge and values which so many others are deprived of. I thank God for giving you the strength and the will to sacrifice your life enabling my life to be enriched. I shall never forget the paths that you have cleared. I LOVE YOU WITH ALL MY HEART.

Growing up can be fun when so many people help such as friends, parents, grandparents and especially teachers. Someday I hope to be a person who can help others learn to grow not only by themselves but with a group of people. Thanks to Bear, Elbow, Kate, Sarah, Mr. and Mrs. Llufrio, Mrs. Kalcic and so many other people at Mary I. You have all truly helped me make it through life. Most of all I would like to thank my parents for always loving me for what I am and not for what they and I wish I could be. You are both truly the best of my friends and I will always love you.

Someone with whom to take a walk
To share a laugh or have a talk
Who'd chat for hours on the phone
Or sense my need to be alone
God made a friend to be Someone we're always glad to see
There's little else that God could send
That means as much as you my friend.

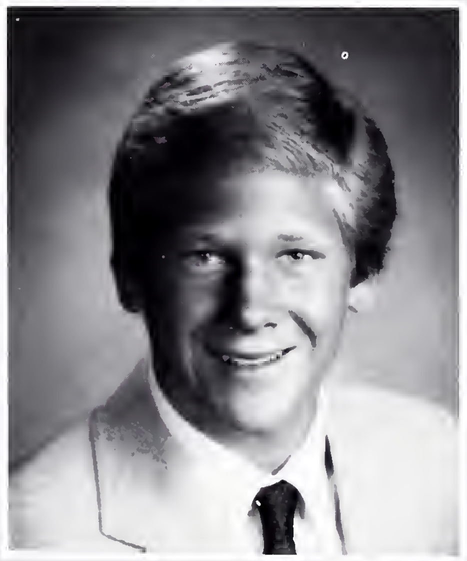
Mrs. Critchlow, we dedicate this Chronicle to you because of the love, understanding and patience you have shown us throughout our years in the Upper School. Your interminable patience in dealing with scheduling conflicts, your willingness to please and your continuing interest in our academic careers are much appreciated. You have followed us from our days as shy freshmen to our last days as confident seniors with devotion, wisdom and a sense of humor. You have enabled us to know you not only as a mother but also as a friend. For your love, your good-nature, your patience and your loyalty to Mary I and the class, we dedicate this book to you as a token of our appreciation.

With Love,
THE CLASS OF '84



1984 is an exciting year filled with changes for the 552 students in grades K through 11 at Mary Institute. A new library in the Middle School and the addition of two new classrooms has been beneficial for students and teachers alike. In addition, curriculums of Science, Drama, History, Economics and Computer are now evident in the Beasley classrooms.

The Middle School is also witness to many exciting changes. The continuation of the successful Kampsville and Camp Wyman programs affords girls in grades 7 and 8 valuable learning experiences. The inclusion of a new program in the 7th grade, "Values", allows students to discuss various topics in a coordinate environment with C.D.S. Students are given the opportunity to participate in drama club, the 7th and 8th grade basketball team, glee club and the newly formed Intermezzo singers.

Grades 9 through 12 also continue to witness important changes. The addition of interim head Allen Adriance, a newly renovated library and a modernizied computer system, characterize 1983-1984 in the Upper School. Increased spirit and enthusiasm and further acceptance of coordination and the honor code contribute to JUST THE RIGHT school year.

Lynn Burwald, fourth grade

Jennifer Fox and Roxanne Vafi, ninth grade

UNDERCLASSMEN

Lindsay Newbold, ninth grade.

Debbie Wilton, eighth grade.

Eleventh Grade

The junior class has had a very successful 1983-84 school year. Throughout the year, they continued their fund raising effort, especially during the first semester as they tried to raise money for the prom. They sold popcorn which was a great success. Their second fund raising effort was in the fall with the seventh and eighth grade dance held for all the neighboring schools. The dance was well attended and pushed them even closer to a full bank.

The long awaited day of Feb. 11, 1984 came quickly. This was the day for the Mary I. junior/senior prom. The 1984 prom was special because it was held at Ridgeway Center on account of the 125th anniversaries of both Shaw's Garden and Mary Institute. Most juniors and seniors agreed that it was one of the best proms ever.

In the spring, the juniors were assigned little sisters. They kidnapped the eighth graders and took them to breakfast. After a stop at Country Day where they were signed and tied to the flagpole they returned to school.

In May the juniors participated in May Day. They each handed a senior a sprig of ivy which symbolized the continual link of the seniors to Mary I. They ended the year with a song on Cry Day for the seniors, along with flowers for them.

Two juniors congratulate each other after a goal scored against the 10th grade in an intramural hockey game.

Tenth Grade

1984 proved to be an exciting year for the sophomore class under the leadership of President Julie Jansen; Vice-President Meegan McMillan; Secretary Alicia McDonnell; and Treasurer Christy Higgins. Sarah James and Lisa Rich served as Student Council Representatives. The sophomores spent a major portion of the year raising money for their Prom next year through weekly applecarts. At the annual Father-Daughter Dinner in the spring the class received their long awaited class rings. Other springtime events included the seventh and eighth Grade Dance and community singing projects. Following all these projects and events, the sophomore became a more united class while having a lot of fun.

Ninth Grade

The ninth grade entered the Upper School excited about their new responsibilities and privileges. Making the hockey, basketball and soccer teams was a thrill as was singing in the Choir, writing for Diary, and working on Chronicle. The Class President was Leslie Armstrong, the Vice-President was Barbara Perez, and the Student Council Representatives were Holly McDonnell and Samantha Holmes. They worked steadily on fund raising activities such as the fall and spring car washes, weekly applecarts and the Halloween Costume Contest. For fun there was a Valentines Dance with C.D.S. and breakfasts with their Big Sisters who really helped to make us feel like a part of the Upper School.

Eighth Grade

The eighth graders had a very exciting year. They started the year off in September with the traditional trip to Kampsville. The girls got to know each other better and had a lot of fun. On October fifth, they had the father-daughter barbeque, where they played softball and had lots to eat. A Tea was held on December fifteenth for the faculty. Everyone prepared delicious foods and deserts, which were consumed quickly by all. To raise money for their class and for Children's Hospital they had a swim-a-thon during the month of January. The eighth grade class officers are: President, Caroline Elzemeyer, Vice-President, Heather Wilkinson, Secretary, Kate Batherwick, and Treasurer, Sara Schoedinger. Seventh Grade

The many seventh grade activities were greatly enhanced by both academic and social programs. "Values" was a new program designed to provide an opportunity for MI girls and CDS boys to discuss various topics in a coordinate environment. For the first time the seventh grade was represented in the Student Search Committee. The Class of 1989, in conjunction with the 125th Anniversary prepared oral history reports. The annual retreat to Camp Wyman in the spring brought both greater understanding of the outdoors and new friendships to the class. Students were also active in the seventh and eighth grade basketball team in order to be better prepared for Upper School sports.

In Chicago they viewed the reknown Vatican and Chinese exhibits. For the class of 1993, the 1983-1984 school year was busy and full of fun. They took a trip to the Zoo in the winter while they were learning about different animals and their habitats. In the spring, a visit to the Arch was made as a supplement to their studies of western expansion. The students took upon themselves the roles of pioneers, complete with covered wagons. Economic studies taught the third grade about scarcity and the law of supply and demand. In their second year drama class, they learned about drama basics and they each wrote their own plays. Computers aided them in such subjects as English and math. The computers were used once a week, when games were played that taught them important strategies. Each Monday, they were assigned voluntary projects which were to be due the following Friday. Journals in which the students sometimes had specific topics to write on were kept all year, and were often shared with the rest of the class. One of the biggest accomplishments made by the third grade was learning their multiplication and division tables, which was exciting for everyone. All in all, they learned a great deal and had a lot of fun at the same time.

The first graders were busy trying to tackle the skill of reading this year. With the help of Mrs. Montgomery and Mrs. Nord, they accomplished their goal successfully. This year had an academic emphasis which proved to be a challenge for many of the students. Despite their many toils, the first graders still found plenty of time for fun. Some of the girls were involved in a popular activity called the Pixies. The entire class made friends, developed a self-image, and prepared themselves for up-coming years.

They also took trips as far away as the Purina Puppy Farm and the Museum of Western Expansion under the Arch. They also headed south to Grant's Farm to see more animals and visit the baby goats. Other trips included Clayton's Oak Knoll Park, Santa's House and the St. Louis Zoo.

The faculty at Mary Institute had the chance this year to work under Mr. Allan Adriance, who served as interim headmaster. Mr. Adriance demonstrated a concern for academic excellence as well as an interest in the day to day life of school. The faculty continues this year to be involved in all areas. They attend hockey, basketball, and softball games; they sponsor activities such as the Diary and the Chronicle; and they chaperone everything from dances to retreats. Mr. Gates, the exchange teacher from Australia, even went so far as to launch a hot-air balloon from the softball field. The faculty are not only able in the classroom, but they are enthusiastic supporters of extracurricular life as well.

Allen C. Adriance
Headmaster

Dear Class of 1984:

It is a rare occasion for a school head to say hello and good-bye to a class during the same academic year, but such is the life of an interim. The transient nature of this kind of leadership can be unsettling to a school community and especially to a senior class. After all, there seems to be something terribly insignificant about an "interim" year.

Yet, while it would have been easy to have dismissed the year or at the very least to simply have tolerated it, you embraced it. You assumed the posture most would expect from a senior class, but went beyond mere expectation. At no other school has this interim been made to feel so welcome. For this and much more, I am truly grateful.

Thus far I have been fortunate enough to serve six independent schools as a teacher, headmaster and trustee. One acquires a perspective that only experience can provide, and Mary Institute stands unique among those schools I have been a part of thus far in my career. It is most difficult, if not impossible, to effectively articulate the very special quality of this School. Surely, much of it rests with the institution's rich heritage and traditions. There is also an inexplicable quality to be found in the character of this community: faculty, parents, alumnae, and especially students. You, as the graduating class, represent so much of what is important in a student body. You have been a pleasure to know and to work with!

If you, after many years, leave Mary Institute with a modicum of the respect, appreciation and affection I have for this School and its people after just one year, you will depart with your lives enriched. You are special individuals graduating from a special school, and it is my privilege to have been a part of your senior year. You will be missed!

Sincerely,

Allen C. Adriance

Administration

The Administration has undergone a major change this year with the addition of interim headmaster Allen Adriance. Coordinated efforts between the Administration and Mr. Adriance have produced beneficial results for the entire Mary Institute community. The Upper School remains under the close supervision of Molly Strassner while Arlene Hogan and Oliver Quayle continue their second year as heads of the Middle School and Ronald S. Beasley School respectively. Jeremy Jones is the head of the joint development office and Sorrel Paskin is the Business Manager of both MI and CDS for his second year. The Admissions Office, under the direction of Carol Sachar and her associate director Anne Watt, continues to maintain maximum enrollment while maintaining high standards of expectation. The Administration has worked well with Allen Adriance and welcomes the opportunity to work with MI's new headmaster, Anthony B. Fruhauf.

Administrative Staff

Although the year has been dominated by changes, the school continues to run smoothly mainly due to the efforts of the administrative staff. In her new position as Coordinator of School Stores, Diane Janish manages to juggle her time between both the MI and CDS bookstores. Mary Jo Worley also has a new job; she is now Secretary to Mr. Adriance, the new Interim Head of Mary Institute. Rose Hagen, Assistant to the Head of the Upper School and Paulette York continue to ensure that the school runs smoothly, overseeing Wednesday sessions and organizing special events such as Careers Day. Nell Critchlow remains the resident expert on scheduling as she continues to coordinate MI/CDS class and exam schedules. The administrative staff has been an integral part in making 1984 just the right year at Mary Institute.

History
Classics

The History Department had another very successful year full of exciting changes. The teachers were concerned with increasing intellectual curiosity and the joy of learning in their students. The fifth grade wrote, produced and performed a series of Greek myth plays that served as their history project for the year. The fifth grade also reenacted an Egyptian burial, while the seventh grade made clay dolls to represent figures of the colonial period. The Upper School History Department has several major goals for the year which include thorough training for AP American History in order to improve AP test scores. Also, a new advanced Economics II course has been added to second semester elective choices.

The Classics Department continues to offer a full program of language study from grades six through twelve. Students study both linguistic and para-lingual material at all levels and develop an increasing awareness of Rome's contributions to western civilization. From the beginning courses which emphasize grammar and vocabulary to AP courses in Vergil and Catullus, students are encouraged to take an active part in the study of Latin both in and out of the classroom. Enthusiastic, interested students and faculty form the core of the Classics program.

To The glorious Ruch-o —
It's been a real pleasure having you around this year - you're a delightful, generous, caring, gentle soul. I admire you and your self-deprecatory confidence immensely.
See you in The Fall.

The English Department has had a very busy and eventful year. As usual, the English teachers sought to teach their students the appreciation of the written word by exposing them to a broad range of English and American literature. Another goal was to prepare, in class, the juniors and sophomores for the SAT exams. This year, freshmen and sophomores were given additional exams at mid-term to give them more practice at taking exams. The Second Annual Prize Speaking Contest was once again a success. The whole school enjoyed seeing the film "A Man For All Seasons" which was co-sponsored by the History and English Departments. The fifth grade English students had some difficulties distinguishing the difference between the preposition and a proposition. However, Mrs. Millers "boom-boom" cheer straightened them out. Within the English Department, there have been many comings and goings this year. We were all sad to see Mr. Gates return to the land "down under" while happy that Mr. Dlugosch returned from there. Mrs. Gunther came back to fill in for Mary Shepley while she was having her baby. Bliss Shands expanded her teaching duties to the seventh and eighth grades.

The Language Department has enjoyed this year very much. This is largely due to the fairly new language lab. This is also the second year they have been using a new text book. In February, an essay contest was held for Spanish students. Also, some students participated in a poetry recitation contest at Wash. U. in March. Certainly, Spanish and French students were very busy preparing for these contests along with all their other work in class.

Obviously, these two departments have had a very busy and productive year. This has been JUST THE RIGHT YEAR for them.

Math Computer

Statistics show that the Math and Computer Department has more students enrolled in a combination of their courses than any other department in the Upper School. The goal of the Math/Computer Department this year is to teach the students to understand and appreciate mathematics. Students again competed in the Missouri Mathematics League this year with much success. An A.P. Computer course and a second semester Economics course have been added to the math department electives.

Science Library

The main goals of the Science Department seem to have all the right objectives this year. The teachers aim to develop scientific thought processes in their students and to promote more positive attitudes toward the study of science. Students have visited such places as Monsanto Chemical Company, The Hall of Evolution, The Missouri Botanical Garden and the Arboretum. In addition to regular science courses, the department also offers opportunity for individual research. Upper School students interested in both the study of Biology and Chemistry are involved in lengthy research projects to further supplement their understanding of the scientific world.

One of the biggest changes at Mary Institute this year has been the expansion and renovation of the Upper School Library. The atmosphere of the library has been greatly improved with the addition of a sitting area and overall redecoration. A wider selection of magazines and interesting reading materials has attracted many students who enjoy spending their free time in the library, reading. With the expansion comes a need for more staffing. The size of the library staff has increased, with Mrs. Spellacy and Mrs. Barciszewski to help Mrs. Maas and Mrs. Heilman to keep the library organized and running smoothly.

S. Blue, B. Salamone

This year the Music department has distinguished itself by presenting the traditional musical concerts and being honored by local musicians. Such guests were Leonard Slatkin, conductor of the St. Louis Symphon Orchestra, and educational programs given by the St. Louis Opera Theatre and Young Audience Concerts. Naturally, the year could not go on without the Middle School Glee Club and Intermezzo singers' annual Thanksgiving concert, the Christmas program, and carolling at Frontenac Plaza. Finally, a spectacular spring concert was held in honor of the 125th anniversary of Mary Institute.

It is the goal of the Art Department to develop their students creative potential through example and encouragement. In the Beasley School students work with Mr. Hanewinkel drawing, making batiks, and painting. The Middle School Art Festival takes place in the Fall and involves the various artistic disciplines of art, music, and dance. Upper School students, under the mentorship of Mr. Handler are also given a unique opportunity to continue developing their artistic talents.

Beasley

This year, as in previous years, the Beasley School faculty is characterized by it's enthusiasm, creativity and energy. The faculty has introduced many new areas of study to the Lower School curriculum such as drama, health, history, micro-economics, and computer. Journals in English, field trips to the Arch in history and projects in computer were all part of the 1984 school year. According to Beasley School head, Ollie Quayle, the most important aspect of the Beasley faculty is their caring concern for the children. Lower School teachers have succeeded in making 1984 just the right year for Beasley students.

The aims of the Physical Education Department have been to promote good health through sports and to provide an opportunity for all students to participate in varsity and junior varsity sports. Many events highlighted this year in this department such as a tennis competition, Mother/Daughter field hockey, and a field day for the Middle School. All of the varsities and junior varsities had exciting and competitive seasons.

The Dance Department worked to introduce the students to the physical art form with much success. This success was shown through the Middle and Upper School dance concerts, and of course, May Day.

For extracurricular activities, 1984 was JUST THE RIGHT YEAR. With the addition of Interim Headmaster Allen Adriance there was increased school spirit and enthusiasm among all members of the Mary Institute community.

Over the summer, students travelled to foreign countries as part of the AFS program or visited the sights of the US with their parents. They also attended the various events held in St. Louis such as the VP Fair and the Miss Universe Pagaent. During August, girls took part in MI sport camps.

In the fall, students were kept busy with various school activities. The hockey and tennis teams practiced daily in preparation for demanding seasons. The MI Fall Play cast and Troubadors members prepared their dramatic productions. The Student Council sponsored the annual MI/CDS BBQ while Model UN, Art Curators and Russian Dancers introduced new ideas and cultures to the MI community.

During the winter, the Chronicle, Diary and Greenleaves staffs worked to meet deadlines. Choir and Madrigals rehearsed in preparation for the Ceremony of Lessons and Carols while the younger choirs prepared for their own Christmas programs. Playworkers worked on the set for the Winter Play and Dance Club choreographed numbers for the Winter Dance Concert. Because of the numerous activities at Mary Institute, 1984 was JUST THE RIGHT YEAR.

VP Fair

One of the highlights from the summer of '83 was the VP Fair. It was held over the Fourth of July weekend in downtown St. Louis. Over 3½ million people attended the fair. It began the night of Friday July first with a colorful parade featuring the Miss Universe Pagent contestants. Saturday gave everyone time to see the fair grounds, visit booths, and watch the air and ground shows. The Harry Belefonte show was the Saturday night highlight, followed by a stunning display of fireworks over the Mississippi River. The Grand Slam Summerjam was the main activity of Sunday day. It lasted for approximately six hours in Busch Stadium and starred the Beach Boys as the last band. That night gave everyone a chance to see even more colorful fireworks. Monday was the last day for everyone to catch the sights. That night there was a beautiful two hour display of fireworks which was overwhelming.

Over the weekend many high school students participated as volunteers for the Operations Center. This gave students a chance to see some of the work that went into the fair. Altogether the VP Fair was a highly successful weekend. It boosted the spirit of St. Louis and was greatly enjoyed by the Mary Institute community.

AFS Summer

The 1983 AFS summer was filled with many students coming and going through our community. Four Mary I students went to several countries throughout the world, via AFS, and all have exciting memories of their travels. Ann Grove visited Colombia, Ann Tureen - Germany, Julie Richardson - Denmark, and Janine Heitland visited Costa Rica. Each of the girls learned about their host countries and made many friends from different cultures. Also, closer to home, some Mary I students housed other students during the "Bus-Stop" weekend. This weekend provided a broader view of American life for AFS students on their way back home to their respective mother countries. The summer ended with the arrival of our AFS student from Egypt, Nina Farouk.

Nina Farouk traveled through Rome on her way to America.

AFSers picnicked at Mary I. before the talent show.

Yearbook Workshop

We hope you have by now noticed how good the Chronicle is. Well, that is in part due to what 14 ambitious Mary Institute students learned at a yearbook workshop held at Quincy College. They were accompanied by Judy Ware, the faculty sponsor for the Chronicle. The workshop lasted for three sleepy nights and four work-and lecture-filled days. The eager students learned the essentials of a good layout and how to write interesting copy (see, your eyes are riveted to the page!) They learned what to put into a good yearbook, and what is better left out. There was a special class for photographers and one for editors.

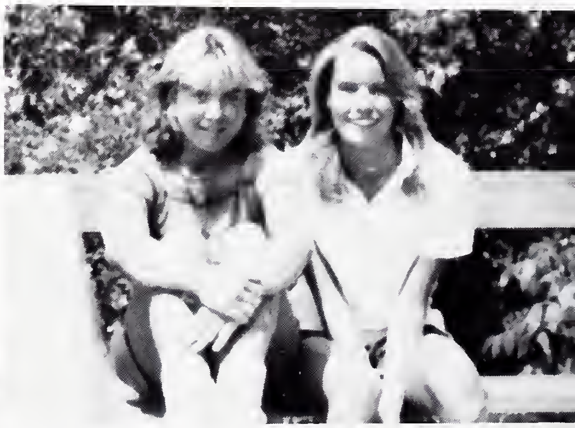
It can be said that the girls were hungry to learn. It can also be said that they were just hungry. That problem was solved in no time. In just four days three people built a huge tower of empty soda cans and threw together a respectable pile of empty food containers. But, as any M.I. girl knows, just junk food could not fill their stomachs. They ate out at almost every meal. Wendy's and the mini-mart were familiar places, and the place to be seen was the Tower of Pizza. You can imagine that all they had on their minds was a full night's sleep. The workshop also was an exercise in coordination, as they spent most of their hours with the lone C.D.S. student. All in all, it was just hard work and good, clean fun.

Sports Camps

During the last few weeks of summer, all girls interested in being a part of the tennis team attended camp at M.I Clinics. Under the instruction of Allison Naunheim, the clinics started August 15 and lasted for three weeks. For two hours each day under the blazing summer sun, the girls drilled and played matches against one another. In addition, after each practice, these dedicated athletes ran windsprints and various types of cross-country courses. Overall, the tennis camp was successful in preparing the girls for an enthusiastic season of tennis.

The J.V. and Varsity camps also began on August fifteenth. For two hours in the heat they practiced. They literally sizzled with temperatures ranging from 90 to 95 and almost unbearable humidity to match. While St. Louis experienced a major heatwave, Cynthia Gill made the field hockey stars even hotter, with the usual windsprints and ever-exciting drills. These tortuous experiences proved worthwhile as the hockey team went on to a victorious season by finishing fourth in the district tournament.

Summer



Summer vacation provides students with many opportunities to learn, have fun and relax. If you stayed in St. Louis all summer there was plenty going on despite the severe heat. Some students took classes at Mark Twain which proved to be a very beneficia learning experience for all involved The VP Fair, Miss Universe Pageant and the Police Concert were the highlights of July. Many students also held summer jobs either in an office, as camp counselors or even as life guards. While many students did remain in St. Louis over the summer, others had the opportunity to travel or live abroad, to visit friends or to return to family summer homes.

Tennis

The tennis team started the 1983 season off strongly with a promising match against the University School of Milwaukee. For the first time Mary Institute managed to secure three of their seven matches against the superior team of Milwaukee. Encouraged by this achievement, the team gained momentum and ended the year with a winning season of 7 wins and 4 losses. The team, led by coach Alison Naunheim and Captain Liz Hardesty, practiced daily in preparation for their upcoming matches. The highlight of the season was the team's victory over JBS, 4-3. While the entire team experienced great success, so did many individual team members. Several players displayed their tennis abilities at the Parkway West Tournament in which the doubles team of Leigh Suffain and Allison Ritter took first place in their division. Liz Hardesty, Jaleen Milligan, Christy Kloecker and Beth Kenny all came away with third place. At the season's end, the team performed well at the Districts Tournament, reaching the semi-finals before being eliminated.

Varsity Hockey

The Mary I. "A" string hockey team had a very successful season. They ended the year with a 9 win, 9 loss, 1 tie record, a fourth place in districts, and a triumph over Villa!

The team had an even win-loss season when it came time to compete in districts. Throughout the tournament not only did the team itself demonstrate unity and spirit but the entire Mary I community did so also. Team captains Helen Arrick and Libby Mugler came away with a districts prize they were very proud of.

The "B" string hockey team started the season with a four game winning streak. However, when the team was confronted with the undefeated Villa team, their winning streak came to an end. Due to their exceptional effort, the team ended their successful season with a winning record of 5 wins, 4 losses and 1 tie. Following the fine coaching of Miss Gill and the constant encouragement of captains Amy McFarland and Anne Seaton, the team had an awesome season overall.

The 1983 Junior Varsity hockey team had an exceptional season. They ended up with an excellent record for four wins, two losses, and one tie. Their success could be attributed to their coach Miss Hinrichs, their co-captains Carrie Weyerhaeuser and Lucie Zaegel, and high scores Tui Kenny and Gina Gaines. The Varsity hockey teams can look forward to some great seasons with the girls of this team playing for them in the years to come.

Milwaukee

Once again the annual Milwaukee weekend was a success. Both the tennis and hockey teams had reason to be proud. The hockey team won 4-1 as final score. The tennis team, although not victorious, lost by only one game. This was the first time that the tennis team scored against Milwaukee. That afternoon, the Milwaukee football team was overwhelmed by the Country Day Rams. Later that evening a delightful dance was held at school. Overall the weekend was a lot of fun and enjoyed by all.

Green / Gold

The Green team-Gold team rivalry began early in the school year, with the Green-Gold chapel. During this chapel, the nominees for the Green team and Gold team captains were introduced. The nominees tried to influence the voters by throwing candy and leading cheers. Those elected were: for the Green team, Beth Kenny and Lisa Combs and for the Gold team, Helen Arrick and Libby Mugler. The teams competed in a variety of atheletic events. It was a fun year for both teams!

This year the Mothers and Daughters competed in both tennis and field hockey. It was a chance for the Mothers to demonstrate their true atheletic abilities. While battling it out, the Mothers and Daughters had a great time. It proved to be a fun sportive afternoon for everyone. Special recognition was given to Mrs. McFarland for having the "Biggest Mouth" and to Mrs. Dillard for having the most "Authentic Hockey Outfit".

Cheerleading

The Varsity, "B", and "C" team cheerleaders had a busy year. All three squads cheered for football and basketball at C.D.S. For the C.D.S. For the Burroughs football game, they decorated the locker-room and school and the Varsity squad aroused the boys' spirit at an assembly. The football season was entended for the Varsity cheerleaders who stuck by their team through the playoffs and a victory at Busch stadium for state champs. The cheerleaders also had fun cheering for basketball. It was a great season for everyone.

Senior Retreat

From Friday, September 30 to Sunday, October 2, the Senior class, accompanied by Mr. Adriance, Ms. Hagan and Mrs. Llufrio, retreated to Camp Wyman in Eureka, Mo. for a weekend of talks and games designed to bring the class closer together.

Instead of a two day retreat, as had been done in the past, the class voted to have a three-day retreat to allow for more free time and activities. The talks were led by Chris Loving, a part of the Mary Institute faculty, and guest speaker Jay Goldberg lectured on time management.

Although the meals were a little less than ideal, the MI girls did not want for food. Almost everyone brought enough food for their cabin, so there was enough to go around for the whole weekend. On the last day of the retreat, the seniors, helped out by the Camp Wyman staff, participated in a ropes course. The goal of the ropes course is to bring the members of the group to trust each other and work as a team.

Although there were several lectures, there was time for the seniors to do what they wanted. Some stayed in their cabins and talked, some took walks and some played Frisbee with Mr. Adriance.

Out of the whole weekend, many said that their favorite part was the free time, which they used to get to know each other better.

Kampsville

In late September, the eighth grade set out for a five-day venture to the archaelogical dig near the town of Kampsville, Illinois. On the first day, they were not jumping at the chance to dig in the extremely hot field. However, on the second day, as the temperatures dropped to freezing, the class piled on eight layers of clothes and headed toward the excavation site to bail and search for artifacts. The experience in Kampsville unified the class and proved to be a great way to start their last year in the Middle School.

Two students demonstrate the correct excavating technique.

Student Council

The 1983-84 Upper School Student Council begin preparations for the year while most people were lounging in the sun, thinking about the summer reading that they were not doing! The Council meet during the summer to revise the M.I. Handbook and discuss the Honor Code. The school year began with the second annual Barbeque where the M.I. and CDS reps. served as chefs. The next projects included a hymnal drive so that everyone can now sing, and a fast to raise money for the Peace Corps. At Christmas the Council arranged Kris Kringles and parties with the Middle School. In addition, the 9th and 10th grades competed against the 11th and 12th grades to benefit the children at Grace Hill. The older grades won and earned a jeans day. Student Council then organized a joint meeting with CDS and Burroughs, and the blood drive for the Red Cross. The year culminated with a fair marking the 125th anniversary of the school and the annual spring Barbeque. This Council, under the leadership of President Kathryn Elliott, Vice President Clare Dietz, Secretary Lucy McClellan and Becky Penniman, Treasurer, worked with both Mr. Adriance and Mr. Fruhauf to help the 125th be one of the best years in our history.

The Barbeque tradition continued this 1983-84 school year with great success and with a lot of fun. On September 16, the M.I. and C.D.S. Student Council chefs prepared a tantalizing meal of hamburgers, chips, and a variety of soda. Music was provided during this outside meal in the courtyard. Although the bees and mosquitos pestered many guests, the turnout was tremendous and this year's barbeque was one of the best.

M.S. Student Council

The 1983-1984 Middle School student council was led by President, Mina Overton and Faculty sponsor, Mrs. Cushing. The council started off the year by collecting for Unicef at Halloween. Their next project was donating to the 100 Neediest cases and giving Kris Kringles to their classmates. The Middle School bought and trimmed a tree with the ornaments which won the ornament contest. Their main project at Christmas time was each class adopting a family. During the springtime, Middle School had a wonderful carnival for the 125th anniversary of the school. The council participated in an operation search, and adopted a foreign child. Overall the council had a very successful year under the direction of the other officers, Heather Holmes as vice-president, Stepanie Hudson as secretary and Janie Jansen as treasurer.

This year the Curriculum Committee changed it's name. Now they are known as the Academic Committee co-headed by Dr. Jamieson Spencer and Paulette York. The purpose of this committee is to listen to and discuss proposals of an academic nature. Student representatives are from the 7th and 8th grades and the vice presidents of the Upper School classes. The committee members meet with all department heads and Mr. Adriance every other Thursday. This year as well as reviewing independent study programs we also reviewed many new courses proposals.

Front Row: P. Larocca, L. Obermeyer, L. Wood, S. James, L. Newbold, M. Wray.

The Student Search Committee had an extremely successful year. After finding an intrim head master for the 1983-1984 school year. The search continued. The Student Committee worked closely with both the Faculty and Board Committee. After only two months of meeting, interviewing and evaluting candidates, the Search Committee made their final decision. On November 22, Mr. Morris, head of the Board of Trustees announced that Anthony B. Fruhauf would be the permanent headmaster of Mary Institute.

AFS has had a very successful year. One student, Dee-Dee Thomas, left our community for Australia to spend one academic year. AFS had yet another International week that brought the cultures of many different countries to the students of Mary Institute.

Art Curators

Art curators are a group of art students who are responsible for assisting at the openings of shows at the Mary Institute Art Gallery. Hanging paintings and setting up wine and cheese tables are just a couple of things that the curators do. They tend to prefer setting up the tables, since M.I. girls would like to be known for being connisseurs of good wine and cheese. They also are fortunate enough to be able to meet many good artists from St. Louis and Chicago. Being an art curator is a cultural experience.

Model U.N. proved to be both a popular and successful activity this year. The Mary Institute delegates traveled to McDonnell Douglas for their first meeting in early October. The representatives for Grenada, Alex Hantz and Michele Kursar, delivered a speech that won them an award. The other delegates were less serious in their efforts, and were content to check out the delegates from other countries. The second meeting was held at Pattonville High School. This session proved to be equally as fun and interesting as the first meeting.

The Fall Play, Farewell, Farewell Eugene, proved to be a smashing success. Expertly directed by Sue Blue, the two act comedy featured Lynn Simowitz and Meegan McMillan as two sisters living together in the early 1900's. They experience conflict after conflict with another due to their vastly different outlooks on life and, ultimately, each is forced to come to terms with her own shortcomings. Though hilariously funny at times, the play ends on a touching, optimistic note. Other featured performers included Jennifer Lieberman, John Sutter, Ann Grove, Suzannah Heineman, Nick Clifford, Drew Platt and Sheela Yadav. Congratulations to all involved.

Troubadours

Audiences said this year's Troubadours production of "Godspell" was one of the best ever. This production differed from shows in past years in that the entire cast remained on stage during both acts. Director Kenneth B. Mehl stated "The cast of "Godspell" was one of the most talented and enthusiastic I have ever encountered." Energy and skill combined resulted in a thoroughly enjoyable and truly professional show. "Godspell" is a musical based on the Gospel of St. Matthew and traces the life and teachings of Jesus, while set in the present day. Senior Tom Canfield portrayed Jesus, while senior Steve Tschudy played the part of his betrayer, Judas. Both leads were superb and brought down the house with their show-stopping Vaudeville duet. Seniors Toni Armenta, Margaret Bull, Clare Dietz, Tim George, Beth Kenny, Christy Kloecker, Cam Litsey, Peter Schiffer, Chris Thompson and Stephanie Yoder each performed solos which greatly added to the beauty of the show. Sally Wurdack returned after an absence of two years to manage and direct costuming for the show, and Carole Buck again gave her expert advice to the cast, giving the show true polish. Under the expert direction of Kenneth B. Mehl and assistant Elson T. Harmon, the cast succeeded in producing a show of true dramatic and musical excellence.

Chronicle

Finally, after months of hard work, the Chronicle Staff and editors, proudly present the 1984 Chronicle.

The main goals of this year's editor Nancy Curby were to improve the quality of the entire book, especially senior pages; organize the staff more effectively; and to meet all deadlines. The first goal was accomplished by Lucy McClellan, Assistant Editor in charge of senior pages. Although her job was by no means easy, 46 senior pages were completed in time for the first deadline on October 24. "I was impressed by the organization of the senior class and their willingness to cooperate with the Chronicle. These two things combined made my job that much easier," said Lucy. Having met the first deadline, finished pages poured out of the newly-reorganized Chronicle Room. The next deadlines of November 21 and January 2 were met on time with considerable contributions by Lela Wood, Business Manager; Kathryn Elliott, Senior Editors; Amy McFarland, Class Page Editor, Katherine Thomas, Photography Editor; and Stacey Cooper, Faculty editor.

This year's editors have concentrated on producing a quality yearbook. Many innovative changes, such as a new cover and increased use of graphics and color, have been affected in hopes of improving the book. After months of hard work, we proudly present to you, the school, our gift, the 1984 Chronicle, a yearbook that accurately reflects the school, the people and the activities of 1984, JUST THE RIGHT YEAR.

Diary

The 1983-84 school year has witnessed changes, both within the Mary Institute community and in the world. The Diary both ushered in and bade farewell to the interim Headmaster, Mr. Allen Adriance, while setting the stage for next year's head, Mr. Anthony Fruhauf. Coverage of political issues increased by way of editorials and student polls pertaining both to global concerns such as nuclear disarmament and the in-school debate caused by the Honor Code. It has been the aim of the Diary staff, under the leadership of Editor Janine Heitland and faculty sponsors Mr. Dlugosch and Dr. Biggs to achieve the right balance of seriousness and humor to make the Diary enjoyable to all of its readers. Editor Janine Heitland comments, "Each year the Diary seems to improve because we can learn from past mistakes. Everyone on the staff has put a lot of themselves into making this year's Diary the best newspaper that we could put out."

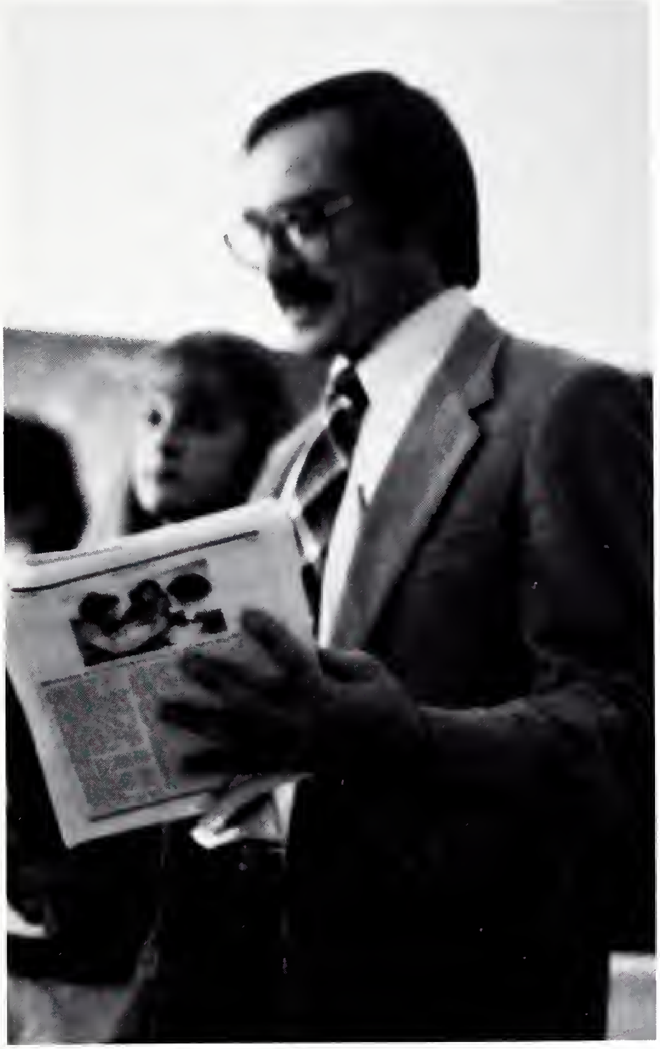
Greenleaves



Greenleaves is a special literary magazine consisting of prose, poetry, artwork and photography published by students in the Upper School. This year the Greenleaves staff produced a 125th anniversary commemorative issue with submissions from alumnae, students and faculty. This year was a great success for the Greenleaves staff headed by Clare Dietz, Mr. Dlugosch and Mr. Salomone. According to one student "Greenleaves is one of the most beautiful pieces of work that the school and students produce."

Chapel Committee's objective was to provide interesting programs with people from within and outside the Mary Institute community. Nicholas Penniman, Jane Schapiro, Karen Foss and Leonard Slatkin were among the informative speakers that the committee provided. Entertaining chapels included the Berea College folk dancers and the Old English folk singers. Successfully, this year's Chapel Committee fulfilled their objectives.

Library Board

Library Board has changed its objectives, they are now working to make the newly remodeled Library a complete success. The former duties of the Board have been assumed by parent volunteers, who shelve books, write Library notes and assist Mrs. Maas. In addition to the board's meetings, the Library Board participates in the Library Committee's meetings to help decide how the library will best meet the needs of the students. The Library Board under the direction of Tanya Lykens would like to thank Mrs. Maas for all of her support.

Independent Science Project

Independent Science Project, I.S.P., meets every Wednesday. The group consists of 5, 6, and 8th graders interested in a biology project or a botany project. The members of I.S.P. each divise their own project and work with the assistance of Miss Alexander. Some of the projects consisted of testing PCB's and their effect on the growth of cancer in plants. A second was adding caffine to the diet of a mouse effect the number of times per minute it could run on a wheel.

Brownies had a very exciting year. With the help of Mrs. Claypool and Mrs. Leydig, the Brownies managed to accomplish many things. For Christmas the girls visited Santa Claus which was said to be lots of fun. They also gave their mothers a valentine's party. As for other projects, the girls went to the Jefferson Memorial. They learned how to make fabric books, and best of all the received their Blue Bird badge. As you can see, this has been a very fun-filled year for the Brownies.

The Pixies, led by Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Morice have had a fun filled year. They met every other week to learn new things. All the first grade Pixies looked forward to their meetings. In the past, they have had a Mexican style party with a pinata, and a trip to the roller skating rink. They planted daisies in the Spring and watched them grow. One of their members was sick in the hospital so they sent her a gift which they made. During the meetings they sang songs of friendship and sharing. All and all the Pixies have had a great year and have enjoyed every minute of it.

The Cub Scouts, too, had an equally exciting year. They worked on service projects in weekly meetings and had a great time.

Madrigals

The Madrigal Singers have enjoyed a very successful year under the direction of Mildred Coon and officers Lynn Simowitz and Christy Kloecker. The group began the year by singing for an assembly of parents at Mary Institute, the "Wednesday Club" at Ludwig Aeolian, and in the annual Fall Concert. The Festival of Lessons and Carols proved to be especially beautiful this year, and the Madrigals were featured in one section of the program. Aided by members of the C.D.S. Glee Club, the Madrigals then performed excerpts from the popular musical "Cats" by Andrew Lloyd Weber and T.S. Eliot in the Freeman Building, and at Country Day School. In April, the group travelled to Kansas City, Missouri, where they performed at the Pembroke-Country Day School. To end the year, the Madrigals performed in the one hundred twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of Mary Institute, and continued the tradition of singing that began with the school in 1859.

Choir had yet another exciting year under the direction of Mrs. Coon. The 73 members of the Upper School Choir started off the year with the Fall Concert at Mary Institute. The program was mainly composed of beautiful folk songs. For the Christmas season the Choir sang Christmas Carols at Plaza Frontenac. The annual Festival of Lessons and Carols was again a success and included a beautiful solo by Choir President, Liz Hardesty. The Choir's last performance, a formal evening concert, was comprised of festive spring songs. This year's Choir officers: Liz Hardesty, President; Anne White, Vice President; Lela Wood, Secretary; and Marion Strain, Treasurer, Mrs. Coon and all 73 Choir members contributed to make 1983 just the right year for music at Mary Institute.

M.S. Music

The Middle School music groups went through a few major changes this year. In the past there were two groups, Middle School Glee Club, consisting of fifth, sixth, and seventh graders and Eighth Notes consisting of eighth graders only. This year, Eighth Notes has been abolished, and a new group has been formed. The group is called The Intermezzo singers. The word intermezzo means intermission, or in the middle and is a perfect name for the group as they are in between Glee Club and Choir. The intermezzo singers, under the direction of Mrs. Coon and coheads Nikki Lugo (eighth grade) and Laura Montoni (seventh grade) had an exciting year. Their first performance was the traditional Thanksgiving Program with choir and glee club. Next they participated in the enchanting Christmas performance which turned out to be quite a success. Finally, they held a special performance in honor of M.I.'s 125th anniversary.

This year only fifth and sixth graders made up the Middle School Glee Club and, as a result more students were able to get involved. Under the leadership of Mrs. Laramie, president Kim Meadows, and V.P. Lisa Ritter, the group had a full year. Their first program was the Thanksgiving Concert in which they appeared with the Intermezzo singers and the Upper School Choir. Next they were off to Frontenac Plaza for some festive Christmas music. The group's final program was held in May during Fine Arts week to celebrate this occasion. The Middle School Glee Club had a busy, but fun filled year!

As usual, the Winter Play was a huge success. Teach Me How To Cry, by Patricia Joudry, is about two social misfits, a boy and a girl in high school. They fall in love but not without complications. There is love and laughter, despair and tears.

Clare Dietz played the mother of Melinda Grant (Lynn Simowitz) and Nick Clifford and Kathy Mulina played the disapproving parents of Will Henderson (Tom Taylor).

Great peformances were also given by Jennifer Lieberman, Steve Lilly, Sheela Yadav, Renee Rainey, Debbie Jones, Mac Skimming and Caryn Edwards.

Playworkers

"When the curtain goes down, you know that applause is not only for the cast, but for the people who work backstage too." said Playworker's co-heads Tanya Lykens and Lindsay Obermeyer when addressing the ninth graders at Freshman Orientation. Work began for Playworkers in September building the large and complicated set for the Fall Play, "Farewell, Farewell, Eugene", by John Vari & Rodney Ackland. Some of the set's unique features included a running faucet, a working stove and an authentic turn of the century telephone. Along with stage construction, the Playworkers are responsible for the costumes, props, lighting, sound and house management of the performances. Sophomore Salewa Mackall earned the "Golden Hammer" award for being the first member this year to complete her required ten hours of work on construction. At the Fall Play's close, Playworkers were soon busy again preparing for the Winter Play, "Teach Me How To Cry". Unlike with "Farewell, Farewell, Eugene" little stage construction was needed. The walls were created not by wood, but by the use of lights and shadows. Under the guidance of faculty sponsors Sue Blue and Bob Salamone, the Playworkers had a fantastic year.

Drama Club

The Senior Advanced Drama Club, headed this year by Lynn Simowitz, is an honorary group of seniors who, have demonstrated an interest in the theater. This interest is shown through participation in Mary I./C.D.S. productions, or by taking certain designated dramatic classes at Mary I, led by Faculty Sponsor Sue Blue.

U.S. Dance

Upper School Dance Club is composed of a group of girls interested in learning about modern dance. The girls learn, practice, and then perform various steps and styles under the direction of president Diane Dark and vice-president Heather Dunaway. At the beginning of the year when fall sports were in full swing, the group participated in technique classes taught by Ms. Walz after school on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Once the season was over the club began to prepare for the Winter Dance Concert which was held on February 8. The girls were divided into groups of five or six. Each group choreographed it's own dance and set it to the music of their choice. A month before the concert the club met every day after school. Besides the Winter Dance Concert, the club participated in the traditional May Day performance. Dance Club worked hard and was successful throughout the year.

The Middle School Dance Club is an activity open to all members of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades interested in extending their dance techniques beyond the classroom. The club meets every Monday afternoon from September until November, and the girls choreographe their own dances. After two months of hard work, the girls put on an outstanding performance on November 16.

Basketball

The varsity basketball team had a very successful season. They ended the year with a respectable record of 10 wins and 6 losses. The team was comprised of four seniors and five juniors. The MI basketball team was ranked fourth in defense in the state as they had held their opponents to 30.5 points a game. The highlight of the season was when Mary I brought home a trophy from the Valley Park Tournament. This year's captains were seniors Kathy Spalding and Libby Mugler. Seniors Trow Meier and Libby Mugler were high scorers with 112 and 140 points respectively.

The B basketball team had a rather dismal season with a record of 4 and 10. Even though they had a losing season, the team demonstrated much improvement. Coach Jim Llufrio said that this year's team was the only team who lost to a school and then went back to beat them a second time. This year's captain was Jacinta Gray. Although the team ended the year with a losing record, they remain enthusiastic about next year.

7th/8th Grade Basketball

The familiar strains "we lost again" echo through the chapel. The two small faces that appear above the podium belong to members of the 7th and 8th grade basketball team. Coached by Beasley head Ollie Quayle, the girls compete against a 5 team league comprised of teams from area schools. Games were held at Brentwood High School or Wydown Junior High once a week. Although many games ended in disappointing losses, team members were prepared for successful Upper School sports careers.

Athletic Association

Athletic Association is a school organization which supports participation in the various athletic teams. To stimulate interest in sports, the group sponsors events such as special hockey games in the fall, athletes for M.S. in the spring, and a recognition banquet ending the year. Under the guidance of this year's officers: President, Helen Arrick, Vice-President, Libby Mugler, Secretary, Susan Zimmerman and Co-Treasurers Mary Hermann and Amy McFarland and faculty sponsor Miss Gill, the activity was most successful in making 1984 just the right year for sports at Mary.

Prom

The long-awaited 1984 Junior-Senior Prom was a huge success. The big night, February 11, 1984, finally arrived. We started off the night with dinner at various places such as Trader Vic's, the University Club, Dominic's, Gian Pepes, Tony's, the McFarland's, the Darks, the Finches, the Laroccas, and the Roldans. After dinner the real partying began. The spectacular Ridgway Center was the site of Prom. We all arrived fashionably late in a variety of limos and cars. We danced to the music of Visions. At 11:30 the party moved to Club '85 where the after-prom and breakfast were held. We were offered tons of food, including Ameghetti sandwichs, chips, dips, brownies and danishes. Surprisingly, we did not eat as much as usual due to the heavy dancing we did to the music by Ferrari. The party went on until the wee hours of the morning. It was a great night and morning filled with lots of partying, dancing, and fun for all. Many thanks to the Class of '85 for a excellent night. The class of'85 showed the Seniors how to party.

I really don't know how to say Thank You to all of the people who have meant so much to me. You are my dearest friends, you have been with me for all the crazy times: stealing cars, wild parties, back-yard bonfires, the police, sneaking out, my mother "she's crazy" and, of course, getting in trouble. Going away to school was very hard for me but I always knew you were here for me. Thanks for everything, you truly are special people.

To the Gypsies:
What can I say? You're the greatest friends a person could ask for! I wish for you all the happiness in the world, you deserve nothing less. I love you all.

Hey christy!
Well, we've made it through another year here, I think. I didn't know
If I could make it through Huxley's math class and Spencer's English class back to back! But I guess I did. I'm going to miss everybody next year. It seems that throughout the years, everybody's gotten closer!

Thank you for making 1984

Christy, (Willowcrest)

I was very priveleged to meet you this year! You have taught me alot about friendships & values and I have enjoyed you all year. I am looking forward to seeing you next year.

Yours always,

Ke

Christy,

I'm glad we ~~got~~ became better friends this year!

Too bad HISTORY didn't have the same atmosphere as English.

—Can't you just SEE MRS. Fullinwider in that position, mood etc.

I wonder if she has a duck tie too, (Dr. Spence).

Thanks for being A GOOD FRIEND! HAVE A GREAT & REALAXING SUMMER!

Love,

Nicole Wilson

By the way — Leaf me alone!!!

Tall blonde personage thou:

What can I say? As usual, nothing coherently! So much, too much has happened this year to fit everything onto one page, but here goes! K-life will never be forgotten, even the ones wished to be forgotten. How could Milo be ignored at this time, although he was the rest of the time? What about the hours on the bus to & from Young Christian's Weekend, not to mention Y.C.W. itself! Matresses on screen cabin doors, and then waking up to below freezing temperatures INSIDE is an unparalled experience, along with the dance, Keith, Amy, and Chuck. You, Missy & I ought to found a Jr. Frisbee League, but first I have to learn how to throw & catch (It may help!!) How on earth can I fit that in with my busy schedule, along with staying on A.P. (not much work involved with that!), not turning in already-late English papers for Mrs. Gould, & being chapter Pres. of Droolers America (we keep in practice w/ every trip to CDS!). Never forget, or totally obliterate from your mind (what little there is left of that) the winter play. Don't ask why, but the less people who remember it (and the following party. Esp. the party), the better!! Thanks for all of the rides to & from K-life (all of which I hope to repay in about 6 months. Can you hear me doing a "Milo imitation" with the motor, or what?); for putting up with me when I was in drool-city w/ various members of my harem, taking 30 minutes to eat lunch, or being just plain weird & obnoxious (my natural state of existence!); for having me over to your house and to the lake for New Year's Eve (literally on the lake!); but most of all, for being there when I really needed you recently. I hadn't realized if you & Missy had been tolerating or liking me until you both came to help me: only really good friends do that. (Thanks for putting up with my paranoia, too!) Y'all got me out of the dumps so I could go back to reality & work things out. Thanks so much!

Friends forever,
Kathy

Chris,
So we're growing up after all. I bet our parents never thought we would. I can't believe its going to be my senior year! The old gang from Rosoman (Shabbi, Bruce) remember Jamie Sheffied?) is really changed. Best Wishes for the summer etc.... The Spirit Be With You!
Anne Turner ♥

Christy:
Had a great [illegible]
Hope to be there next year at the yacht! And to top off this great year, as Daleen would say—"You're such a loser"
Michael Brundill

Christy,
Can you believe that it is already the end of the year? It seems like last week that we started school in September. I just can not believe how fast the years are going by. It does not seem like 6 years since
I came to MI. I'm glad it is summer. Relaxation Time.
Mrs. Fullinwider History Tests
No more English Essays or Spanish Tests for a few months.
You've been a great friend. I hope that we will be in Some of the same classes next year.
